Description

cbacl::get_groups_below_me()

and cb.core.php line 3636 (maybe this could use the acl-function instead of duplicating the code ?)

should not remove anything if a user IS super-admin:

```
                // remove users 'above' me
                $i                         =      0;
                while ( $i < count( $gtree ) ) {
                    if ( in_array( $gtree[$i]->value, $ex_groups ) ) { array_splice( $gtree, $i, 1 );
                    } else {
                        $i++;
                    }

get_groups_below_me first had to be fixed to properly get the groups below someone. I've fixed it to loop through the users groups and uniquely add them to an array then parse out those that the user doesn't have permission for from a select drop-down object array. This is the same methods used in GJ 2.4 tested working (which can be removed once this is added to CB core).

Fixed in r1581 similar and equivalent to proposed patch.

Thanks Kyle.
